PUBLIC PARTICIPATION AND CONSULTATION

PUBLIC PARTICIPATION & THE 2016 RTP/SCS

Over the past several cycles of the RTP/SCS (also referred to as the “Plan”), SCAG’s approach to public participation has evolved. Although SCAG is not an implementing agency, the vision that is contained within the Plan sets the tone for policy development in the region. Public involvement helps the SCAG Board and staff understand the needs and concerns of stakeholders, leading to more meaningful planning efforts and activities. How the region tackles our toughest issues, how we can remain open to varying perspectives and how we can begin to collaborate to address these challenges is revealed during the public engagement process.

To meet the many state and federal requirements for public participation, SCAG developed a Public Participation Plan, which was adopted by the Regional Council in April 2014. SCAG’s Public Participation Plan not only reviewed specific requirements, it also provided an overview of goals and strategies for public engagement. Strategies utilized in the development period of the Draft 2016 RTP/SCS included:

- Developing materials for public outreach in a variety of formats to reach broad audiences, including a short video, fact sheets, surveys, PowerPoint presentations and presentation poster boards
- Centralizing RTP/SCS information on a new easy-to-use microsite, developed to be mobile/tablet friendly and compliant with the 1990 Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA)
- Supporting multiple committees, task forces and working groups made up of SCAG partners, stakeholders and interested groups to develop the key components of the plan
- Holding multiple public open houses before the release of the Draft 2016 RTP/SCS to allow direct participation by interested parties
- Announcing the schedule for the open houses through a wide variety of means, including community calendars, distributing flyers at local events and libraries, email newsletters, social media, outreach calls and ethnic media
- Seeking the assistance of transit agencies, stakeholder organizations and their communication channels to maximize outreach opportunities
- Reaching out to traditionally underrepresented and/or underserved audiences
- Evaluating public participation activities to continually improve the outreach process

In addition to these outreach efforts, all regular and special meetings of the Transportation Committee; the Community, Economic and Human Development Committee; the Energy and Environment Committee; the Legislative/Communications and Membership Committee; the Executive Administration Committee; and the SCAG Regional Council are publicly noticed and opportunities for public comment are provided at each meeting. Federally required interagency consultation is done through the monthly meetings of the Transportation Conformity Working Group.

UPDATED OUTREACH TOOLS

Since the 2012 RTP/SCS, new public participation tools and methods have emerged that make it more convenient for the public to weigh in, and at the same time improve the responsiveness of government agencies. SCAG is continually evaluating these new tools and methods to see if they are appropriate to our needs.

Of foremost importance to SCAG’s outreach tools was the development of a new 2016 RTP/SCS website. Websites have grown increasingly important as an information dissemination tool, but also as places to provide feedback. The new 2016 RTP/SCS website provides several enhancements, including a “responsive” design that is adaptable to viewing on mobile and tablet devices, and large visuals and styling to make it more engaging and user-friendly. A focus on clear, simple navigation helps visitors find information quickly and easily, and accessibility considerations ensure compliance with ADA requirements.

During the pre-draft development phase, the website contained information on how to get involved in the process, details on outreach workshops and meetings, staff presentations on important topics, the 2016 RTP/SCS introductory video, and other materials such as fact sheets. The website also included direct links on how to sign up for the RTP/SCS email list and a link to SCAG’s main website, which has detailed information about SCAG and its many programs, events and meetings, meeting agendas and minutes, as well as publications such as: Your Guide to SCAG, the Benefits of Membership, Member Handbook, SB 375 information, the Spotlight newsletter and fact sheets.

Social media also played a larger role in the RTP/SCS outreach process. Currently, SCAG has more than 960 page likes on Facebook, and close to 1,400 followers on Twitter. Updates of all SCAG-related activities and meetings are regularly provided on both social media networks.

While new technologies played an important role in better connecting with SCAG’s constituents, staff has also endeavored to improve overall communications and messaging. Efforts are being made to provide clear, consistent and concise messages for media and public involvement, and limiting the use of planner-speak and acronyms as much as possible. Using data visualizations and infographics in fact sheets and poster boards has made the complex and voluminous RTP/SCS more accessible, and has been an effective way to convey the issues and subject matter more effectively.

The 2016 RTP/SCS introductory video is another example of the important role of design and data visualizations. In clear and simple terms and bright colorful animation, the video explains the need for a regional transportation plan, its goals and key topics that will be addressed in the Plan, and asks participants to get involved. The video was produced and screened at the pre-draft open houses, included in subsequent staff presentations, and also made available on the SCAG website. It helped participants visualize and better understand the Plan, and contributed to a high level of interaction between staff and workshop participants.

DEVELOPING A PLAN WITH LOCAL INPUT

A critical component to the success of planning for a region as geographically diverse as Southern California is the participation of our local government partners to develop a shared understanding of local growth and sustainability factors. Local jurisdictions are surveyed on their growth forecasts to 2040, which provides important data for the draft Plan. This approach is a hallmark of SCAG's plan development. It not only acknowledges the on-the-ground knowledge of cities and counties, it emphasizes regional collaboration from the very beginning of the Plan's development.

Termed the Bottom-Up Local Input Process, this information gathering stage began in March 2013. From December 2013 to July 2014, SCAG staff began meeting one-on-one with jurisdictions to answer questions on the development of the 2016 RTP/SCS, to offer assistance in reviewing SCAG's local growth forecast and land use datasets, and to collect information on local sustainability measures. Over the eight-month period, staff completed meetings with 195 jurisdictions, or 99 percent of all cities and counties in the SCAG region. This effort has resulted in feedback from 94 percent of jurisdictions on all or a portion of the base data that informs the 2016 RTP/SCS.

One component of the process was to get information from jurisdictions on locally planned or adopted sustainability plans and programs. SCAG's Local Implementation Survey asked if a jurisdiction had completed a recent update to their general plan, and if strategies such as infill development and transit oriented development had been included. In addressing SB 375 requirements, SCAG also surveyed local jurisdictions on environmental planning activities in the region, as well as interest in California Environmental Quality Act streamlining provisions. SCAG sought to obtain the most up-to-date information available of voluntary actions that local jurisdictions themselves are taking to become more sustainable — including, but not limited to—efforts directly targeting greenhouse gas emissions. This was also a valuable gauge in determining how well the 2012 RTP/SCS was being implemented.

SCAG's fourth focus area was to survey each city's and county's past, current and future Transportation Demand Management policies and strategies that would reduce greenhouse gas emissions. This information was extremely valuable in planning the SCS, allowing SCAG to evaluate the entire region's efforts to meet greenhouse gas reduction targets set by the California Air Resources Board.

Over the course of this outreach process, a wealth of information was developed that helped to inform the 2016 RTP/SCS. Beyond the refinement of SCAG's land use and socioeconomic datasets, the Local Implementation Survey helped to identify what local measures are planned or adopted that support SCAG's regional efforts. Results from the survey show that:

- 30 percent of jurisdictions are in the process of updating their General Plan. Of these respondents:
 - 91 percent of jurisdictions report "Infill Development" as a strategy to be supported by their new General Plan
 - 79 percent included "Complete Communities"

- 76 percent included “Concentrated Destinations”
- 67 percent reported transit-oriented development to be a supported strategy in their updated General Plan
- 62 percent of respondents selected all four SCS strategies to be supported in the update
- 76 percent of respondents indicated having an RTP-designated “High Quality Transit Area” (HQTA) within their jurisdiction. Of these respondents:
 - 40 percent reported having policy incentives in place to encourage HQTA development
- 19 percent of jurisdictions have adopted a “Complete Streets” policy, and 26 percent are in the process of doing so
- Just over 41 percent of localities have adopted a “Safe Routes to School” policy, and 24 percent are in the planning stages
- Nearly 20 percent of respondents have adopted a local pedestrian plan, with another 22 percent in the process of doing so
- 59 percent of reporting jurisdictions have adopted a bicycle plan, with another 36 percent planning to implement a policy
- More than 56 percent of jurisdictions have adopted a Transportation Demand Management (TDM) policy, with another 12 percent in the process of doing so
- Nearly 21 percent of respondents have adopted a local parking policy, with another 7 percent in the planning stages
- About two-thirds of respondents have adopted an impact fee policy, with another 20 percent reported they anticipate implementing the policy
- About 31 percent of jurisdictions have adopted a public health policy, with another 26 percent in the process of doing so

Many jurisdictions also have different types of open space programs or policies. Forty-seven percent of jurisdictions have a program related to the protection of natural lands, 15 percent for the protection of agricultural areas, and 60 percent have parks and recreation open space programs. Nearly half of respondents listed land use programs/policies for open space in their jurisdiction, which were primarily general plan elements such as an open space element, parks and recreation element, natural resources element or conservation element. Another 21 percent of programs/policies were mitigation programs such as Natural Community Conservation Programs and Habitat Conservation Programs.

From August 2014 through July 2015, staff worked to develop a number of potential land use and transportation scenarios for the 2016 RTP/SCS. These scenarios and initial performance results of each were presented to the public at the RTP/SCS open houses. Additional information on the Growth Forecast process is available in the 2016 RTP/SCS Demographics & Growth Forecast Appendix.

STAKEHOLDER WORKING GROUPS

Following the adoption of the 2012 RTP/SCS, the Regional Council approved the formation of six ad hoc subcommittees to help guide the implementation of the plan and lay the foundation for development of the 2016 RTP/SCS. These subcommittees, comprised of elected officials, representatives from private sector and stakeholder groups, included: Active Transportation; Goods Movement; High-Speed Rail and Transit; Public Health; Sustainability; and Transportation Finance. Each of the six subcommittees presented recommendations at a special Joint Meeting of the Regional Council and Policy Committees at the 2013 Regional Conference and General Assembly, which were subsequently adopted by the Regional Council on June 6, 2013. Many of the recommendations helped identify important next steps, such as ongoing data collection to better inform regional policy and seeking partnerships with County Transportation Commissions and other stakeholder organizations. These stakeholder partnerships and the formation of working groups were an important characteristic in the development of the 2016 RTP/SCS.

SCAG has long convened a Technical Working Group (TWG) to provide feedback on the technical elements of the RTP/SCS. The TWG is comprised of a diverse group of stakeholders representing varied interests including six County Transportation Commissions; 15 subregional agencies; environmental and public health organizations; and automobile, bicycle and pedestrian advocacy groups. During this development cycle, the TWG met monthly to ensure proposed strategies, performance measures and analytic methods are reasonable and sound. In addition to the Technical Working Group, three other working groups were created – the Active Transportation, Open Space Conservation and Public Health working groups. Past agendas and presentations for these working groups can be accessed on SCAG’s website at <http://www.scag.ca.gov/committees/Pages/CommitteeL2/WorkingGroups.aspx>

ACTIVE TRANSPORTATION WORKING GROUP

During the public review and comment period of the Draft 2012 RTP/SCS, SCAG heard from a considerable number of stakeholders about the need for increased funding and investment in active transportation. SCAG’s approved 2012 RTP/SCS included an increased investment of $6.7 billion toward a regional bikeway network, local active transportation plans and improving thousands of miles of dilapidated sidewalks.

Following the conclusion of the Active Transportation Subcommittee, SCAG began to implement the plan by providing funds from its Sustainability Grants and developing joint work programs with each county on strategies such as first/last mile (to transit). The Active Transportation Working Group was formed in 2014 to guide SCAG’s active transportation activities and to provide review and guidance in the development of the active transportation component of the 2016 RTP/SCS. More than 80 professionals and stakeholders were invited to participate in the working group meetings, and the meetings were open to the public. A total of four meetings of the working group were convened, and participants provided valuable feedback on relevant performance measures and recommended best practices. The working group also provided input on the 2016 RTP/SCS active transportation component, which includes eleven strategies for maximizing active transportation in the SCAG region, focused on regional trips, transit integration, short trips and education/encouragement. For more information on these strategies, please consult the Active Transportation Appendix.

OPEN SPACE CONSERVATION WORKING GROUP

In the 2012 RTP/SCS, SCAG outlined suggested steps toward developing an Open Space Conservation Plan to mitigate planned development activities. Since then, SCAG, in coordination with its regional partners, has made progress on those suggested steps. One important action is the formation of the Open Space Conservation Working Group, which met from November 2014 and through June 2015. A total of six meetings were held, with several additional ad-hoc subcommittee meetings. Participants in the working group included Amigos de Los Rios; Building Industry Association; California Department of Fish and Wildlife; City of Irvine; City of Mission Viejo; Endangered Habitats League; Friends of Harbors, Beaches and Parks; Los Angeles County Department of Regional Planning; Metro; The Nature Conservancy; Orange County Transportation Authority; Riverside County Transportation Commission; San Bernardino Association of Governments; Town of Apple Valley; The Trust for Public Land; and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

With the participation and input of the working group, SCAG has developed a set of strategies on a variety of approaches to conserving natural and farm lands. The strategies and potential mitigations are part of SCAG’s natural land/farm land conservation plan. For more information on these strategies, please consult the Natural and Farm Lands Appendix.

PUBLIC HEALTH WORKING GROUP

During the 2012 RTP/SCS development process, SCAG received numerous comments from public health stakeholders to improve the health of our residents through smarter investments in transportation and land use. Specifically, they sought investments that would encourage active transportation and reduce the costs of medical care, transportation and housing, provide jobs and improve access to essential destinations. Since the conclusion of the Public Health Subcommittee, there has been a groundswell of support around creating healthy communities and improving the quality of life for its residents.

Under direction from the Regional Council to address public health more broadly in its planning process, SCAG established a Public Health Working Group to help develop a work program and guide the integration of public health considerations into the 2016 RTP/SCS. More than 80 public health professionals and stakeholders were invited to participate in the working group. A total of three meetings of the working group were convened, which were open to the public.

Participants provided valuable feedback on guiding principles for public health considerations in the 2016 RTP/SCS, relevant performance measures and recommended best practices. Among the guiding principles was the recognition that public health outcomes are influenced by multiple policy elements of the Plan (transportation and land-use), and that SCAG will use a “Health in All Policies” approach to engage a wide range of stakeholders, support interagency coordination with local public health departments and regional partners, and conduct analysis across relevant plan elements as appropriate. SCAG also identified seven focus areas for further analysis and implementation related to the built environment’s impact on health outcomes: accessibility, affordable housing, air quality, climate adaptation, economic opportunities, physical activity and transportation safety. For more information on the guiding principles and the seven public health focus areas in the 2016 RTP/SCS, please consult the Public Health Appendix.

BUSINESS STAKEHOLDERS

In April of 2009, SCAG formed a business advisory group to advise SCAG staff on the economic implications of the agency’s planning activities and to better engage key public and private stakeholders. At its formation, the business advisory group – the Global Land Use & Economic (GLUE) Council – was focused on the implementation of SB 375 and how Southern California could reduce greenhouse gas emissions and establish economic co-benefits through better land use, transportation and housing planning throughout Southern California. Membership of the GLUE Council consists of key business and organizational leaders from both the private and public sectors to shape and create a beneficial program that integrates the Southern California economy, land use and transportation demands into an effective and efficient growth pattern. The GLUE Council has become a resource for SCAG as an ongoing dialogue between SCAG’s staff and Regional Council and the broader Southern California business community and is especially adept at reviewing various regional plans and policy proposals. Over the past year, they have been given presentations on key components of the 2016 RTP/SCS, and they have provided insight on the business, economic and job creation impact of the Plan.

ENVIRONMENTAL JUSTICE STAKEHOLDERS

Since 2008, environmental justice has been a key concern for SCAG. Low-income and minority communities are often located near industrial centers and transportation hubs, and are often disproportionately impacted. In addition, as a government agency that receives federal funding, SCAG is required to conduct an environmental justice analysis for its RTP/SCS. Specifically, it is SCAG’s role to ensure that when transportation decisions are made, low-income and minority communities have ample opportunity to participate in the decision-making process, and that they receive an equitable distribution of benefits and not a disproportionate share of burdens.

SCAG held five environmental justice workshops to ensure that all members of the public had an opportunity to participate early and meaningfully in the 2016 RTP/SCS planning process. As part of the outreach effort, SCAG compiled a list of key environmental justice stakeholders to be consulted. This list is comprised of more than 600 individuals and organizations that were involved with the 2012 RTP/SCS, as well as additional stakeholders such as advocacy groups organizing around environment, poverty, public health and housing, as well as public agencies and other involved groups. SCAG maintains this list regularly and allows interested stakeholders to sign up online for the mailing list.

This first workshop was held on Nov. 20, 2014 at SCAG's headquarters in downtown Los Angeles. The second series of workshops was held in April 2015 in downtown Los Angeles and Riverside. The third series of workshops was held in August 2015 in downtown Los Angeles and Ontario. To maximize participation from a wide range of stakeholders, two of the workshops were held in the Inland Empire region, and four of the five workshops were held in the evening hours to accommodate work schedules and other circumstances. Workshops held in the SCAG Los Angeles office were also available via video conference at five SCAG regional offices to ensure that geography would not be a limiting factor for participation. Each workshop drew about 25 participants, including residents and representatives of local community organizations.

At the workshops, staff shared information on the environmental justice process and analysis as part of the 2016 RTP/SCS. SCAG's analysis has been broadened to include the Plan's impact on other disadvantaged populations, including elderly, households without a vehicle, individuals without a high school diploma, and areas designated as disadvantaged by Senate Bill 535 (DeLeon). In addition to those mentioned above, staff also solicited input on additional topics of evaluation, analysis and potential mitigation from participants.

To gather more specific information, SCAG also conducted focus groups and one-on-one interviews with environmental justice stakeholders. More than 75 individual stakeholders were contacted to participate in focus groups centered around specific areas of concern, such as public health, housing, minority and environment. All focus groups and interviews were conducted by a third-party consultant contracted by SCAG to allow stakeholders to share their thoughts and concerns candidly and comfortably. Stakeholders who were unable to participate in the focus groups were invited to participate in a one-on-one interview with similar questions asked at the focus groups. Twenty three stakeholders participated in the focus group sessions, which were held in July 2015 in Los Angeles and Riverside.

Based on input received from the workshops and focus group meetings, the environmental justice analysis to the 2016 RTP/SCS was updated to include:

- Expanding the analysis beyond regional impacts, and include community-based approach
- An analysis on potential gentrification impacts from urban infill and transit oriented development
- Additional analysis to identify environmental justice concerns for active transportation modes, including possible roadway hazards for bicyclists and pedestrians
- Broadening the analysis of existing conditions and identifying trends at a place-by-place basis.

For more information on the analysis and its results, please consult the Environmental Justice Appendix.

SEEKING INPUT IN THE PRE-DRAFT PERIOD

California's SB 375 requires that SCAG conduct a minimum of 16 RTP/SCS workshops throughout the region – one in Imperial County and three in each other county. These workshops must introduce the potential land use and transportation scenarios for the 2016 RTP/SCS. Most importantly, these scenarios are intended to help educate the public on the trade offs and consequences of varied land use and transportation strategies under consideration in the Plan.

SCAG took a broader approach in designing the public workshops. Taking a cue from the California Transportation Plan 2040 workshop, Plan Bay Area open house and City of Los Angeles Great Streets public engagement activities, SCAG adopted an open house format where participants were able to educate themselves at their own pace. This format engaged both "expert" stakeholders and the general public alike, while still providing both with opportunities for input.

In designing the open houses, the goals included:

- Sharing the purpose of the RTP/SCS
- Introducing and providing information on policies and strategies under consideration
- Describing the performance outcomes of different policy choices
- Receiving input from participants

The workshops were advertised as two-hour open house sessions where participants can arrive and leave at their discretion. Participants were greeted at a welcome table and received instruction on the format of the workshop. The 2016 RTP/SCS animated video provided a brief introduction of the Plan before participants viewed a set of poster boards on the projected changes in population and demographics in their county and the region. These poster boards set the stage for a series of stations, each exploring a group of topics, including transportation challenges, public health and the environment, sustaining our infrastructure and promoting the economy. Computer kiosks at each station included survey questions and gathered input on what the resident's priorities were related to the topics covered. And SGAG staff were on hand to provide information, answer questions and take public comments, as needed.

The last station provided details on the four transportation and land use scenarios that were being considered, and how development location, neighborhood design, housing options/mix, and transportation investments within each scenario would impact greenhouse gas emissions, land use, fuel consumption, water consumption and other costs in the region.

In all, SCAG conducted 23 open house events across its six counties, from late May to July 2015, the details of which are provided in TABLE 1. The open houses drew more than 700 individuals. Recognizing that not all members of the public could attend the open houses, SCAG made the survey and poster boards available on the 2016 RTP/SCS website, giving individuals an opportunity to participate virtually. This online survey was translated into Spanish and Chinese, and made available throughout the workshop period.

OUTREACH METHODS

Email and social media have been the primary outreach channels for publicizing the open houses. Primary tactics included developing plain-language communications materials such as save-the-date cards, flyers, posters and invitations and distributing them through email and online channels. As a rule, all communications materials were translated into Spanish, Chinese, Korean and Vietnamese to ensure reach to diverse populations throughout the region. SCAG maintains an impressive database of email contacts for its outreach purposes. Its regular newsletters, including Spotlight, the monthly newsletter of the Regional Council, have been important vehicles to communicate updates on RTP/SCS policy development. Following the start of the open houses, SCAG began collecting names from attendees and on the RTP/SCS website to provide interested parties with periodic updates on engagement opportunities. The RTP/SCS Outreach List now includes about 1,000 contacts. Separately, staff also maintains individual distribution lists for announcements to its stakeholder working group meetings.

In addition to the regular email channels, SCAG's outreach team sought to drive greater attendance and awareness of the RTP/SCS through an on-the-ground campaign. SCAG's outreach team cultivated a list of 1,500 key constituents and potential program champions. This list included leaders and representatives from a variety of advocacy, civic and social service groups in the SCAG region and organizations whose interests aligned with the RTP/

SCS. The outreach team contacted individuals on this list through email, phone calls and one-on-one meetings, to introduce SCAG and the development of the RTP/SCS for the region. The individuals were then asked if they would assist in sharing information about SCAG's RTP/SCS open houses through presentations at organizational meetings, through individual emails, campaign emails, community events and flyer distributions. The outreach team made contact with an estimated 557 stakeholders located throughout the Los Angeles (San Fernando Valley, Gateway, San Gabriel Valley, and North County areas), Orange, Ventura, Riverside, San Bernardino and Imperial counties. This includes additional outreach to Asian, Latino and African American stakeholder groups.

RTP/SCS outreach efforts were particularly focused in areas closest to open house venues and to organizations that represented diverse communities who had not previously participated in the RTP/SCS process. Initial contact was followed up with electronic correspondence, newsletters, and a link to the RTP/SCS website, video and RTP/SCS fact sheets. More than 10,000 emails were sent, of which 42 percent of clicks resulted in a visit to the RTP/SCS website and 50 percent of clicks resulted in an RTP/SCS video view. Seventy five percent of stakeholders contacted were enthusiastically in support of the RTP/SCS planning effort.

To gain greater reach with the broader public, the outreach team attended more than 30 community meetings and events in the region and distributed 7,200 RTP/SCS open house flyers. Flyers were also dropped off at 181 libraries, community centers and other locations throughout the region to publicize the event.

In addition to social media posts about the open house events, SCAG's outreach team also reached out to 470 media outlets in the region to post the open house information on their event calendars. The list of media outlets contacted is included in TABLE 3.

All in all, more than 700 people attended the 23 open houses held throughout the SCAG region, bringing much greater awareness of SCAG and the 2016 RTP/SCS by a more diverse audience and helping inform the draft plan.

SURVEY INPUT RECEIVED

Responding to public requests, SCAG made the open house survey available on the 2016 RTP/SCS website in June 2015, giving individuals who could not attend in person an opportunity to participate virtually. The online survey was also translated into Spanish and Chinese to increase accessibility.

At the Aug. 6 Joint Meeting of the Regional Council and Policy Committees, SCAG staff provided a summary report on the survey input received. A total of 667 individuals participated in the surveys at the open houses or on the RTP/SCS website. The majority of survey participants reside in Los Angeles County, making up 51 percent of the total respondents, followed by Orange County at 15 percent and Riverside, San Bernardino and Ventura Counties each at nine percent. Five percent of online participants did not state which county they reside in. Not all participants filled out every question in the survey, so the number of responses differed from question to question.

The survey included 37 questions on transportation priorities, land use preferences, public health concerns and how residents viewed transportation funding mechanisms. The questions, most of them multiple choice, included:

- What do you think the most important priority should be for managing our regional highway and road system?
- What is your greatest barrier to using public transportation?
- If we don't have the money to provide public transit to all communities, what should we do?
- How important is it to have one pass or payment method that will work on many different transit systems?
- What do you see is the main problem keeping you from walking more often?
- What do you see is the main problem keeping you from biking more often?
- How accessible are parks, walking and bicycling facilities and other opportunities for physical activity in your community?
- Which areas of public health are you most concerned about?
- What should be an appropriate buffer between homes and freeways?
- How do you view the issue of gentrification? Gentrification, while holding many definitions, is commonly understood as a change process in historically low-wealth communities that results in rising real estate values coupled with shifts in the economic, social, and cultural demographics and feel of the communities.
- How often does poor air quality affect your life?
- To accommodate the region's future population, new housing development and housing types in the coming decades should be primarily: (select one)
- Future development of employment centers and commercial areas should mostly occur in: (select one)
- Future development of residential areas should mostly occur in: (select one)
- Air quality has improved tremendously in the SCAG region over the last several decades and yet we still have among the worst air quality in this country. What do you think causes the poor air quality?
- What should we do to clean the air that we breathe?
- How important is protecting Southern California's biodiversity and natural habitat areas to you?

- Is urban development in habitat areas and/or farmlands a problem in Southern California?
- Should future growth in Southern California primarily occur in outlying areas or within the existing urban/suburban areas?
- If you had control over the transportation budget, how would you rank the following in importance?
- How concerned are you about sharing the road with commercial vehicles, such as heavy trucks?
- When making decisions about whether to shop on-line or travel to a store to purchase goods, how important is transportation as a factor?
- The region's unmet transportation needs are estimated to exceed $200 billion over the next 25 years. How should we finance those needs? The following are some potential approaches to the use of transportation taxes and fees to help meet the region's unmet transportation needs. Please tell us how important they are to you.
- Do you have additional thoughts you'd like to share?

In addition to the responses to the survey questions, open house and online participants submitted 181 public written comments. Residents, elected officials, representatives of public agencies, community organizations, and environmental, housing and business stakeholders truly made this a "bottom up" process. The results of the survey and public comments have been collected in a summary report. These documents, along with the original workshop handouts and materials, are available on the 2016 RTP/SCS website (<http://scagrtpscs.net/Pages/WorkshopMaterials.aspx>).

REACHING OUT TO TRADITIONALLY UNDERREPRESENTED AND/OR UNDERSERVED COMMUNITIES

SCAG recognizes the diversity across the six-county region, geographically, politically and culturally. Southern California is a region with more than 120 languages spoken. Educating new Americans on the purpose of the RTP/SCS and encouraging participation from traditionally underrepresented communities is not a new concept, but it has become a renewed effort with the 2014 update to SCAG's Title VI Plan and Language Assistance Plan for Limited English Proficient Populations.

Individuals for whom English is not their primary language and who have a limited ability to read, write, speak or understand English are recognized as "limited English proficient", or "LEP." SCAG's Language Assistance Program for Limited English Proficient Populations is intended to guide the agency in the provision of meaningful access to its services, programs and activities by LEP persons. This program complements in many ways the goals and strategies outlined in SCAG’s Public Participation Plan, adopted by the Regional Council in April 2014, to engage the public in regional planning efforts.

In SCAG’s outreach for its open houses, SCAG translated flyers and announcements into Spanish, Chinese, Korean and Vietnamese - the four most spoken languages in the region after English - to engage these communities. SCAG circulated translated press releases, engaged ethnic media and translated the online surveys to gain further input. Moving forward, SCAG will continue to make an effort to provide translation of meeting notices and key materials that help explain core components of the Plan.

CONSULTATION WITH NATIVE AMERICANS AND TRIBAL GOVERNMENTS

Since 2006, SCAG has ensured that the Native American perspective is represented at the decision-making level, by providing seven voting seats to tribal government representatives on the Regional Council and Policy Committees. The 16 federally recognized tribes within the SCAG region choose these seven representatives. In addition to board and committee representation, SCAG reached out to tribal governments during the RTP/SCS development process, notifying them of workshops, public hearings and other major meetings.

In October 2015, SCAG held two Tribal Consultation Workshops on the 2016 RTP/SCS. The workshops, held in downtown Los Angeles and at the Coachella Valley Association of Governments, provided an overview of the 2016 RTP/SCS and its Program Environmental Impact Report (PEIR). The workshops sought input on the priorities of tribes in the region and on tribal cultural resources as they pertain to the PEIR; input on potential impacts from transportation projects; and feasible measures for preservation/mitigation. About 16 tribal council members, tribal representatives and cultural resource specialists participated in the workshops.

AB 1246 CONSULTATION

SCAG is also required under state law (Cal. Public Utilities Code Sections 130058 and 130059, commonly referred to as “AB 1246”) to convene at least two meetings annually of representatives from each of the country transportation commissions, SCAG and Caltrans for the following purposes:

- To review and discuss the near-term transportation improvement programs prior to adoption by the commissions
- To review and discuss the regional transportation plan prior to adoption

- To consider progress in the development of a region-wide and unified public transit system
- To review and discuss any other matter of mutual concern

On November 20, 2015, SCAG held an AB 1246 meeting with representatives from the commissions and Caltrans that was also open to the public to review the major components of the Draft 2016 RTP/SCS.

LOOKING AHEAD

With the release of the Draft 2016 RTP/SCS for a 55-day public review and comment period, SCAG is required by SB 375 to conduct a minimum of two elected official workshops in each county and three public hearings region-wide. The elected official workshops are intended to brief local leaders on the key components and benefits of the draft Plan, and are open to the public. Specific dates and times for the workshops and public hearings will be advertised on the RTP/SCS website. Additional workshops will also be posted.

Regional Council members will play an important role in raising the awareness and the participation of local elected officials, residents and other stakeholders. SCAG staff will provide an outreach toolkit that will provide Regional Council members with collateral materials and talking points to build awareness of the draft Plan and encourage public participation during the public comment period. The toolkit will include key highlights and benefits of the RTP/SCS for their subregion, links to videos, invitations to workshops, sample calendar postings and social media posts which they can distribute through their existing communications or other local channels.

During this post-draft release period, SCAG will continue to inform and engage the public with updated fact sheets, videos and presentations on the draft plan. Stakeholder groups can submit a request for a SCAG staff member to make a presentation on the Draft 2016 RTP/SCS at their meetings. Requests can be emailed to rtpscs@scag.ca.gov.

Specific public comments on the Draft RTP/SCS will be recorded and considered by SCAG in the development of the 2016 RTP/SCS. At the March 2016 Regional Council meeting, SCAG staff is planning to present a summary of all public comments received. More information will be provided on the 2016 RTP/SCS website – <http://scagrtpsc.net>
